Who Is Kris Jenner?

Kris Jenner, born Kristen Mary Houghton in 1955, has evolved from a housewife to the "Queen of Reality" and a savvy businesswoman. Her journey began in the suburbs of New Jersey, where she met Robert Kardashian, a prominent attorney who later played a pivotal role in the O.J. Simpson trial. Together, they raised four children—Kourtney, Kim, Khloé, and Rob—who would become household names.

After the family's initial foray into reality TV with Keeping Up with the Kardashians, Kris pivoted from being the supportive mother to the mastermind behind the brand. She founded Kardashian Worldwide, launched the successful Kylie Cosmetics line, and negotiated lucrative deals with major corporations such as PepsiCo and Samsung. Her business acumen earned her a spot on Forbes' list of the most powerful women in business.

Beyond her business ventures, Kris is also a philanthropist, having supported causes ranging from the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital to the United Nations' Women's Empowerment Initiative. Her life story, now captured in her latest book, offers a blueprint for leveraging personal narrative into global influence.
